English as a World Language

The English language is the most commonly spoken language in the world. It is the first language of more than 400 million people in Australia, Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, New Zealand, South Africa, and the United States. Around 400 million people who live in Bangladesh, India, Pakistan, and many African countries speak English in addition to their own language. Approximately 750 million more people around the world use English as a foreign language. English is the international language of business, travel, science, and technology.

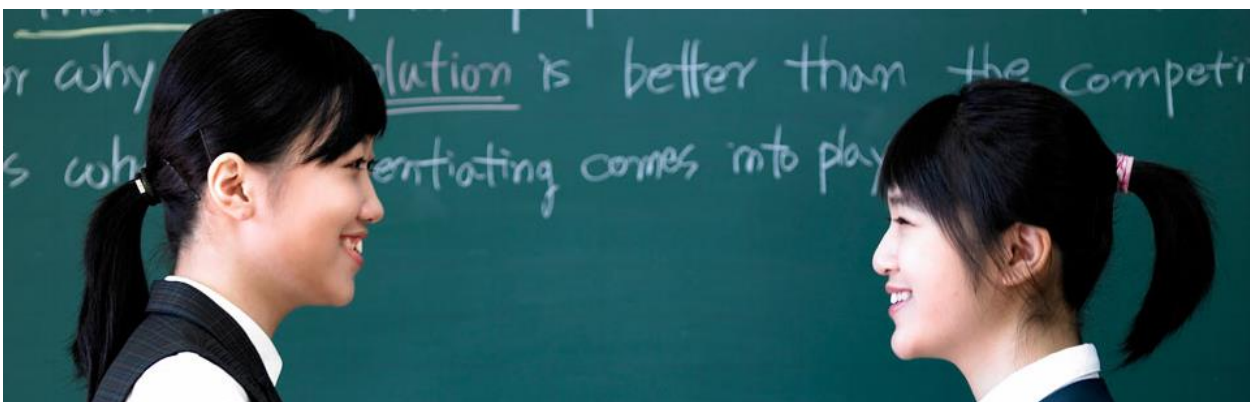

- Countries where English is the main language.
- Countries where English and local languages are spoken.

Features of English

How many words do you think English has? 50,000? 100,000? More? Actually, it has 600,000! Some English words are hundreds of years old. These words include woman, man, sun, hand, love, go, and eat. Many English words come from other languages, such as Arabic, French, German, Greek, Italian, Latin, Russian, and Spanish. For example, the word algebra is from Arabic. Fashion is from French. Piano is from Italian. Canyon is from Spanish.

English makes words in different ways. Sometimes it joins two words to make a new word. Class and room make classroom. Cow and boy make cowboy. Sometimes it mixes two words Breakfast and lunch make brunch. Sometimes long words become shorter, for example, flu for influenza, or exam for examination.

English and Other Languages. There are many English words in other languages. The French talk about le weekend, in Spain people eat un sandwich, and Germans say sorry. The vocabulary of technology used around the world is mostly English, with words like web and click in many languages. Many sports words are also from English, for example, goal and ring. In some places, people mix English with another language. In the US, there is Spanglish, in China, Chinglish, and in France, Franglais. English is a true lingua franca in the world today.
